The Internet and the Library

The City of Imperial Public Library provides public access to the Internet as a means to enhance the information and learning opportunities for the citizen's of the library's service area. The Board of Trustees has established the Internet Use Policy to ensure appropriate and effective use of this resource.

Access to the Internet is available to all patrons; however, this service may be restricted at any time for use not consistent with the guidelines. Parents of minor children must assume responsibility for their children's use of the library's Internet service. Prior to being granted access to the Internet, all users must sign the Internet Use Agreement. Anyone under 18 years of age must also bring in a parent or guardian to sign the Internet Use Agreement in front of library staff. All users must log-in prior to beginning their session.

In accordance with the American Library Association's Access to Electronic Information, Services and Networks, an interpretation of the Library Bill of Rights, the Library supports the ideals and rights of public Internet access, particularly the following:

- User's should not be restricted or denied for expressing or receiving constitutionally protected speech.
- Information retrieved or utilized electronically is constitutionally protected unless determined otherwise by a court with appropriate jurisdiction. These rights extend to minors as well as adults.
- Users have both the right of confidentiality and the right of privacy.
- Electronic information, services, and networks provided directly or indirectly by the library should be equally, readily and equitably accessible to all library users.
- Providing connections to global information, services, and networks is not the same as selecting and purchasing materials for a library collection.
- Parents and legal guardians who are concerned about their children's use of electronic resources should provide guidance to their own children.
- Libraries and librarians should not deny or limit access to electronic information because of its allegedly controversial content or because of the librarian's personal beliefs or fear of confrontation.
- The provision of access does not imply sponsorship or endorsement.

Library's Role

The Library:

- provides computers with network connections and an unsecured wireless network for Internet access;
- provides staff to assist in locating sites and information on basic Internet navigation and in the use of equipment for Internet-related services;
- uses an access management system on its public computers to establish queuing, manage time limits and assess printing charges;
- does not restrict, filter, or edit Internet content;
- does not keep a permanent record of the Internet sites visited or searches performed by individuals; and
- assumes no responsibility for any damages, direct or indirect, arising from its connections to the Internet or for the loss of personal electronic documents, files, or files storage devices while using the Library's computers and Internet access networks.

User Responsibilities

Users are encouraged to be good information consumers by evaluating the validity of information accessed via the Internet. Users are also cautioned that the Internet is a decentralized, unmoderated global network which can and does contain material that is inaccurate, controversial, and may be offensive or harmful to some users. The City of Imperial Public Library has no control over and is not responsible for the content found on the Internet. The library will not censor access to material nor protect users from offensive information, and it is not responsible for the availability and accuracy of information found on the Internet. All Internet users are expected to use this Library resource in a responsible and courteous manner and to abide by the following regulations for the use of Internet resources in the Library:

- use of Internet computers is limited to 30 minutes per session. Each user is allowed one session—if there is an unscheduled computer available at the end of a session, the user may have another session, but may not exceed more than two sessions for a total of 60 minutes per day;
- black & white printing is available at a cost of 10¢ per page;
- customers may not use library cards belonging to others to log on to or reserve library-provided computers;
- users may not invade the privacy of others. No more than two people may use a workstation at the same time;
- users may not unplug, remove, or otherwise modify library equipment;
- library computers and networks may not be used to transmit spam, to propagate destructive processes such as computer viruses or worms, or to engage in any illegal activity over the Internet;
- users agree not to incur any costs for the library through their use of the Internet service;
- it is solely the responsibility of the wireless device owner/user to provide anti-virus protection, and to configure personal equipment with appropriate security settings to control access from other wireless devices within library facilities and the Internet itself. Wireless users assume all risks in this regard.

Unauthorized use of library computers, compromising the rights of other library customers or workers in their use, or any violation of the Internet user guidelines can result in the suspension of Internet and/or library privileges. The following laws govern the use of the Library's public Internet computers and networks:

- Child Pornography -
 - California Penal Code Section 311.3 prohibits the sexual exploitation of a child. "A person is guilty of sexual exploitation of a child if he or she knowingly...duplicates, prints, or exchanges any representation of information, data or image, ... that depicts a person under the age of 18 years engaged in an act of sexual conduct."
- Harmful to Minors -
 - California Penal Code 313 et. seq. defines a violation as "every person who, with knowledge that a person is a minor, knowingly exhibits or offers to distribute or exhibit by any means, matter which is harmful to minors". Computers are located in public areas where minors may be present.
- Hostile Work Environment -
 - Displaying explicit, graphic, or obscene images on computers in the library may create a hostile workplace environment for staff and may constitute a violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which prohibits sex discrimination in the workplace.
- Tampering with Equipment and Software -
 - It is illegal for users to physically or electronically modify library computer equipment, or to tamper with hardware, software, or computer networks (California Penal Code, Section 502 et. seq.)
- Copyright -
 - United States Copyright Law (Title 17, U.S. Code) prohibits the unauthorized reproduction or distribution of copyrighted materials, except as permitted by the principle of "fair use". This includes electronic information sources and software. Users are responsible for any consequences of copyright infringement.
- Confidentiality -
 - The Library maintains the confidentiality of customer usage of the Internet. However, the Library will cooperate with law enforcement upon court order in providing access to customer records to the extent required by the California Public Records Act (California Government Code, Title 1, Div. 7, Chapter 3.5, Section 6267) and other State or Federal statutes.

Guidelines for Parents

Parents or guardians have the right and responsibility to determine and monitor their children's and only their children's access to library materials and resources, including those available through the Internet. The Library does not act in loco parentis in the supervision or restriction of children's use of the Internet. It does not have the same role in supervising children that schools have, and it cannot substitute its judgment for that of parents or enforce parent's decisions about their children's Internet use. The following recommendations are intended to assist parents and guardians in guiding children in their use of the Internet:

- visit the Library with your child;
- spend time online visiting sites with your child;
- discuss topics that may be off limits when they are on the Internet;
- explain the importance of never giving identifying information such as home address, telephone numbers, passwords or school names over the Internet;
- caution never to arrange to meet in person with people they have become acquainted with using electronic mail, chat rooms and other forms of direct electronic communications;
- ask the library staff for help in finding information on the Internet and for a listing of websites designed to promote Internet safety awareness for children.
